

Cost of Consideration and Revealed Preference

Gavin Kader

UCL

12th April, 2018

2018 ENTER Jamboree, TSE

What is a consideration set?

What is a consideration set?

- First introduced by Howard and Sheth (1969), Wright and Barbour (1977)
- A subset of the total number of goods with which a consumer makes their decisions
- For example:
 - Over 20 tea companies in the UK selling multiple types of tea
 - A consideration set (for a particular individual) could involve teas only sold by PG Tips and Tetley

What is a consideration set?

- First introduced by Howard and Sheth (1969), Wright and Barbour (1977)
- A subset of the total number of goods with which a consumer makes their decisions
- For example:
 - Over 20 tea companies in the UK selling multiple types of tea
 - A consideration set (for a particular individual) could involve teas only sold by PG Tips and Tetley
- Set of goods used to make decisions “...need not coincide with the set of all possible alternatives” (Horowitz et. al (1995))
- Costly to use the set of total alternatives